

iBrain Storming

iBrain Storming is a day dedicated to PhD students. They will have to present themselves or their results in different ways, depending on the number of years they have spent in the laboratory.

As iBrain is a multidisciplinary research laboratory, it will also be a question of making itself understandable to as many people as possible, giving free rein to discussions, and why not, creating interdisciplinary projects.

All iBrain members are welcome, but need to register, and come to that unit event focus on PhD presentations.
